Bring all books to all classes.

Course Requirements and Instructional Methods

Course requirements:

- Attend all classes (Must provide prior notice for classes missed. If a class is missed without prior notice, student should contact the instructor as soon as possible after class and make arrangements to obtain the day's assignments. Missed quizzed and exams cannot be made up.)
- Complete all assignments. Late assignments will not be accepted.
- Cover external news events as assigned. Turn in articles on those events on time. Assignments Will be due at the beginning of class or as designated.
- Pass in-class quizzes.

• Pass mid-term and final. Final will be a writing project.

Instruction method:

The Journalism 100 class with have two segments. One will be a traditional classroom approach that includes classroom lecture, textbook reading and quizzes. For the second segment the class will simulate the newsroom of a professional media organization. Students will be required to cover stories as assigned, present independent story ideas and complete them, as well as edit and comment on the articles of other students. Students also will share story ideas and reporting experiences in class for discussion with the instructor and other students. The two segments will be intermingled throughout the semester.

Assignment Deadlines and Course Work

Students will be required to meet each deadline for assignments in this course. If a deadline is missed, student will not receive credit for the assignment, although late assignments will be reviewed to feedback for improvement. Students are required to submit assignments in Microsoft Word DOCUMENT (.doc or .docx) format and send them to the instructor as an attachment via email. Please do not copy and paste assignments submissions into the body of an email. Such submissions will be returned without review or a grade, with risk missing the deadline, and must be resubmitted properly.

Some assignments require attending public meetings and other community events outside of the classroom, on and off campus, including evenings and weekends. Missed assignments will receive a failing grade.

All assignments -- both in-class and homework -- will be edited and returned for improvement where necessary. Students are allowed to improve their work for a better grade, but it is the student's responsibility to ask for the opportunity to do so.

Writing Materials Always bring a pen/pencil and a notebook with you to class.

Email Account, Internet Access, Computer Access, and Digital Cameras

Students are required to have a working email account that must be checked daily for correspondence from the instructor in relation to coursework. Students will be required to submit your assignments to me via your email account. That also means students must have Internet access either at home or by the use of IVC campus computers, or by other means, e.g., public libraries.

Excuses for failing to do coursework due to lack of Internet access, email, or computer access are not acceptable.

Students will need a digital camera to complete the final project assignment for this course. If a student does not own a digital camera, then the student must secure a way to take high-quality digital photos for the last two assignments.

Course Grading Based on Course Objectives

Grading

There will be a total of 2,000 possible points. You will have 13 writing assignments, one quiz, one midterm, and one final semester project. Your attendance and participation in the course carries the most weight in your final semester score.

The following lists the weight of each portion of your grade:

In-Class and Homework Assignments 1100 points

Quiz 100 points

Midterm 150 points

Final Project 400 points

Attendance & Participation 250 points

Attendance

- A student who fails to attend the first meeting of a class or does not complete the first mandatory activity of an online class will be dropped by the instructor as of the first official meeting of that class. Should readmission be desired, the student's status will be the same as that of any other student who desires to add a class. It is the student's responsibility to drop or officially withdraw from the class. See General Catalog for details.
- Regular attendance in all classes is expected of all students. A student whose continuous, unexcused absences exceed the number of hours the class is scheduled to meet per week may be dropped.
- Absences attributed to the representation of the college at officially approved events (conferences, contests, and field trips) will be counted as 'excused' absences.

Classroom Etiquette

- Electronic Devices: Cell phones and electronic devices must be turned off and put away during class unless otherwise directed by the instructor.
- In-Class Use of Computers and Internet The nature of the course classroom is to give you full, instant access to news and information that will help you learn. The use of computers during class is restricted to that purpose.
- Food and Drink are prohibited in all classrooms. Water bottles with lids/caps are the only exception. Additional restrictions will apply in labs. Please comply as directed.
- Disruptive Students: Students who disrupt or interfere with a class may be sent out of the room and told to meet with the Campus Disciplinary Officer before returning to continue with coursework. Disciplinary procedures will be followed as outlined in the General Catalog.
- Children in the classroom: Due to college rules and state laws, no one who is not enrolled in the class may attend, including children.

Academic Honesty

- Plagiarism is to take and present as one's own the writings or ideas of others, without citing the source. You should understand the concept of plagiarism and keep it in mind when taking exams and preparing written materials. If you do not understand how to correctly 'cite a source', you must ask for help.
- Cheating is defined as fraud, deceit, or dishonesty in an academic assignment or using or attempting to use materials, or assisting others in using materials, or assisting others in using materials, which are prohibited or inappropriate in the context of the academic assignment in question.

Anyone caught cheating or will receive a zero (0) on the exam or assignment, and the instructor may report the incident to the Campus Disciplinary Officer, who may place related documentation in a file. Repeated acts of cheating may result in an F in the course and/or disciplinary action. Please refer to the General School Catalog for more information on academic dishonesty or other misconduct. Acts of cheating include, but are not limited to the following: (a) plagiarism; (b) copying or attempting to copy from others during an examination or on an assignment; (c) communicating test information with another person during an examination; (d) allowing others to do an assignment or portion of an assignment, (e) use of a commercial term paper service.

A few notes

In this class you will learn:

- Understanding news values and basic news writing structure.
- How to cover a story fairly and comprehensively,
- Working through the newsgathering process by developing a story, proposing it, researching it, conducting interviews, identifying and gathering appropriate visual elements, writing it and getting it published.
- Media editorial, advertising and business functions.
- Practicing ethical and thorough journalism in the in the age of social media

Summary -- The culmination of the student's learning will be a final semester project to be proposed for publication in a media to be determined. The final project must be produced for credit in the course, but the student's final grade is not contingent on the final project being published.

Fabrication is lying. If you make up, or fabricate quotes, information, sources or otherwise invent material for this course, then you have committed fabrication.

Attendance -- Students are encouraged to attend all 32 class sessions in this semester. However, it is understandable that illness, personal emergencies and other unforeseen problems may prevent your attendance. In those events, please attempted to notify me before your absence in a class, in a reasonable amount of time following the start of the class and check Blackboard so you know the assignments for that day and can view the daily lesson plan. Absences are not an excuse to turning in an assignment late.
