Course Description

Modern World History is a broad survey of the diverse societies of Africa, Asia, Europe, the Americas, and Oceania from the 1400s to the present. This course emphasizes the political, cultural, social, imperial, and trade connections between western and non-western societies of the modern era. This course is the second part in a two-semester survey of world history from prehistoric to present times. Because of the scope of this course, we will be unable to explore any one region or civilization in depth. Instead, we will attempt to look at the history of the world in order to understand the development of modern economies and nation-states, the role of religion and culture, and to recognize the connections between different peoples and across time. Though an understanding of “what happened when” is critical as a foundation, we will go beyond names and dates. Instead, we will look at the social bonds and conflicts created by culture, religion and trade. We will discuss the patterns of society and government that our ancestors developed in order to meet their desire for political and social stability. By the end of the course, students will understand the main trends in world history from early modern times up to the present.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon course completion, the successful student will have acquired new skills, knowledge, and or attitudes as demonstrated by being able to:

- Identify and describe the chief political, social, economic and/or cultural characteristics of important ancient and pre-modern civilizations, cultures, and societies.
- Read, evaluate, and analyze primary and secondary historical sources and display an understanding of these sources competently and persuasively in a written and/or oral report, on topics relevant to early world history.
- Display an understanding of world geography relevant to early world history and successfully explain how the physical and natural environment has both affected and been affected by human societies.

Course Objectives

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, students will be able to:

- Demonstrate a knowledge of world geography and its influence on human history.
- Describe how political, economic and intellectual forces paved the way for revolutionary changes in world governments and the rise of nation-states.
- Identify and analyze world reactions to European expansion in Africa, Asia and the Americas.
- Describe the impact of the Industrial Revolution on world civilizations.
- Analyze the growth of modernity in a global context.
- Discuss the social, economic and political factors at work in China, Japan, Europe and America in the period between 1850 and 1914.
- Demonstrate knowledge of the causes of World War I and the changes caused by the war.
- Summarize the causes of World War II and the worldwide political and economic changes that resulted from the war.
- Assess the Cold War and its effects on the emerging nations of Latin America, Africa, and Asia.
- Evaluate the post-Cold War world and the implications for the future.
- Demonstrate knowledge of terrorism and nationalism in the 21st century.

Course Requirements and Instructional Methods

Instructional Methods: This course will include 15 to 18 lectures. Lectures will often include information not covered in your readings. Periodically, lecture will also include class discussions requiring your active participation. Students may also be required to read and watch material posted on Canvas. Both outside and in-class writing assignments are required. Reading is expected to be completed during the assigned week. Students must take notes during lecture. Please bring a copy of each lecture outline to class. They can be located on Canvas. All out-of-class written assignments must be submitted on Canvas. All assignments must be submitted in a Word.doc format. I do not accept individual hardcopies or emailed assignments. Please check Canvas for all due dates.

- Attendance: At the beginning of class I will take attendance. Students may earn up to 15 points of extra credit for attending every class session. Students absent more than twice will not receive the extra credit. Students who leave early or arrive late more than twice will accrue one absence toward their potential bonus points. Also, unapproved phone activity will result in a zero.
- Final Paper: You will write one analytical essay on Michael Jordan and the New Global Capitalism. You will receive a prompt for this assignment in advance. You must submit your response on Canvas by 11:59 p.m. on June 1, and also bring a hardcopy to class the next day to receive full credit. Please attach the assigned rubric to the front of your submission. Failure to submit a hardcopy will result in a 3-point penalty. Failure to attach the rubric will result in a 2-point penalty. Submissions will be penalized five points for each calendar day the assignment is late. This assignment will be worth up to 100 points.
- Map Quiz: There will be two map quizzes given on the dates indicated in the Course Schedule. The two quizzes will be worth a combined 50 points. You will receive a list of places to identify and a blank map(s) prior to the quiz on Canvas. Note: You will not receive a word bank during quiz.
- Reading Quiz: There will be one reading quiz given on the date indicated on the Course Schedule. This quiz will be on Train to Pakistan, and is intended to give me a sense of whether you are critically thinking about the reading material. The quiz will each be worth at least 50 points. Be sure to bring an 882-E scantron to class.
- Short Responses: Over the course of the semester you will submit three short papers. You can find the due dates for each in the Course Schedule below. These assignments must be submitted on Canvas by 11:59 p.m. on Friday of the assigned week. Note: Be sure to double-check Canvas for submission date changes.

To complete your response, you must read the document(s) or watch the assigned film clip(s). Each submission will be worth 25 points. Each submission should have a total word count between 350-650 words. Submissions that do not meet the minimum word count will be penalized up to ten points. Submissions less than one week late will be penalized up to five points. Submissions more than one week will not be accepted. You will not be allowed to submit your response once the assignment has closed on Canvas.

Each submission must have the student's name, the date, the name of the course, and the word count single-spaced in the top right-hand corner. The title of the document should include the name of the documents or author's last name as listed on the course schedule. The title must be centered above your response. Text must be 12-point Times New Roman, lines must be double-spaced, and the document must have one-inch margins. You must cite all information using the Chicago Manual of Style. You must utilize two short direct quotes in your response. Answer each question separately. Do not include the given questions.

The final test will not be cumulative. I will not allow a make-up examination except in instances in which a student has a documented medical emergency. Students will need to provide a large blue or green book for each exam. Do not bring a small blue or green book. Each test will be worth at least 100 points. Tests may include a mixture of multiple choice, matching, and/or short identification. You will receive a study guide at least one week in advance.
- Video Response: This in-class assignment will be worth up to 10 points. I will provide more information on the day of the assignment. You must be present the day we watch and discuss the film to receive points.

Out of Class Assignments: The Department of Education policy states that one (1) credit hour is the amount of student work that reasonably approximates not less than one hour of class time and two (2) hours of out-of-class time per week over the span of a semester. WASC has adopted a similar requirement.

Attendance

- You are expected to attend every class session. Missing class will cause you to miss valuable information, and thus, could cause your grade to suffer.
- Please see the extra credit opportunity associated with attending class in the Course Requirements and Instructional Methods section.
- A student who fails to attend the first meeting of a class or does not complete the first mandatory activity of an online class will be dropped by the instructor as of the first official meeting of that class. Should readmission be desired, the student's status will be the same as that of any other student who desires to add a class. It is the student's responsibility to drop or officially withdraw from the class. See General Catalog for details. If you are in class anytime during the semester but stop coming to class and do not officially withdraw, you will receive an F.
- Regular attendance in all classes is expected of all students. Attendance will be taken every class period. If you are late or leave early, you may be marked absent. It is your responsibility to make sure I know you were in class. Students who stay for less than two-thirds of the class are considered absent. Students are responsible for all materials, assignments, or information given in class, regardless of whether you were in class. A student whose continuous, unexcused absences exceed the number of hours the class is scheduled to meet per week may be dropped. For online courses, students who fail to complete required activities for two consecutive weeks may be considered to have excessive absences and may be dropped.
- Absences attributed to the representation of the college at officially approved events (conferences, contests, and field trips) will be counted as 'excused' absences, however, do not take this class if you will have to miss more than two classes as a result of these activities, because it will seriously impact your ability to successfully complete the course.

Academic honesty in the advancement of knowledge requires that all students and instructors respect the integrity of one another's work and recognize the important of acknowledging and safeguarding intellectual property. There are many different forms of academic dishonesty. The following kinds of honesty violations and their definitions are not meant to be exhaustive. Rather, they are intended to serve as examples of unacceptable academic conduct.

- Plagiarism is taking and presenting as one's own the writings or ideas of others, without citing the source. You should understand the concept of plagiarism and keep it in mind when taking exams and preparing written materials. If you do not understand how to "cite a source" correctly, you must ask for help.
- Cheating is defined as fraud, deceit, or dishonesty in an academic assignment, or using or attempting to use materials, or assisting others in using materials that are prohibited or inappropriate in the context of the academic assignment in question.

Anyone caught cheating or plagiarizing will receive a zero (0) on the exam or assignment, and the instructor may report the incident to the Campus Disciplinary Officer, who may place related documentation in a file. Repeated acts of cheating may result in an F in the course and/or disciplinary action. Please refer to the General Catalog for more information on academic dishonesty or other misconduct. Acts of cheating include, but are not limited to, the following: (a) plagiarism; (b) copying or attempting to copy from others during an examination or on an assignment; (c) communicating test information with another person during an examination; (d) allowing others to do an assignment or portion of an assignment; (e) using a commercial term paper service.

Student Equity Program

- The Student Equity Program strives to improve Imperial Valley College's success outcomes, particularly for students who have been historically underrepresented and underserved. The college identifies strategies to monitor and address equity issues, making efforts to mitigate any disproportionate impact on student success and achievement. Our institutional data provides insight surrounding student populations who historically, are not fully represented. Student Equity addresses disparities and/or disproportionate impact in student success across disaggregated student equity groups including gender, ethnicity, disability status, financial need, Veterans, foster youth, homelessness, and formerly incarcerated students. The Student Equity Program provides direct supportive services to empower students experiencing insecurities related to food, housing, transportation, textbooks, and shower access. We recognize that students who struggle meeting their basic needs are also at an academic and economic disadvantage, creating barriers to academic success and wellness.

We strive to remove barriers that affect IVC students' access to education, degree and certificate completion, successful completion of developmental math and English courses, and the ability to transfer to a university. Contact: 760.355.5736 or 760.355.5733 Building 100.

- The Student Equity Program also houses IVC's Homeless Liaison, who provides direct services, campus, and community referrals to students experiencing homelessness as defined by the McKinney-Vento Act. Contact: 760.355.5736 Building 100.
